Each year, hundreds of new inscriptions on stone and on various materials are discovered throughout the areas corresponding to the Ancient Greek and Roman civilizations. This fresh evidence is continuously renewing, and sometimes challenging, our views on Greek and Roman history. «The Journal of Epigraphic Studies» intends to play a major role in this process and aims to foster the study of Greek and Latin inscriptions, from the beginning of the alphabetic writing in the Greek world during the 8th century BC down to Late Antiquity and the Early Byzantine period. It welcomes the publication of new material (in Greek, Latin, or in other languages closely related to the Greek and Roman cultures) from all parts of the Ancient World, reassessments of already known inscriptions, as well as groundbreaking papers on various aspects of Greek and Roman history relying mostly on epigraphic evidence. «The Journal of Epigraphic Studies» accepts articles written in English, German, French, Italian and Spanish. Submitted articles are peer-reviewed by an international Editorial Committee. Articles submitted for publication in «JES», 2 (2019) should be sent by January 31, 2019 to: jes@libraweb.net. Articles should comply with the specific editorial rules accessible through: www.libraweb.net.
